Trustway Proteccio™ OEM

Trustway Proteccio™ OEM provides editors and integrators with an open and secure hardware platform for designing certified and scalable cryptographic appliances. It is based on our netHSM Trustway Proteccio™ hardware, the only HSM with the French national cybersecurity agency 's "reinforced qualification".

It provides the flexibility to load your chosen operating systems and applications to market your own hardware security appliance.

Its cryptographic core accommodates a key that verifies the OS and the application at start-up and provides all cryptographic services necessary for the appliance.

The Trustway Proteccio™ OEM solution is well-suited for various hardware server designs, specifically tailored for PKI certification authorities, OCSP responders, servers handling eIDAS signatures and timestamping, DNSSEC servers, encryption appliances, platforms dealing with CASB encryption and authentication, and Key Management Systems.

It brings together a secure cryptographic core in compliance with the strictest international security standards, and an exclusive hardware appliance housing a complete x86/x64 application environment, to provide our OEM partners with a user-friendly and customizable solution, bolstered by the most cutting-edge physical and software security features on the market.
